Personal statement: I have a passion to coach and develop young players in the sport of Hockey. Through hard work and the proper skill training I enjoy watching the kids improve every time they step on the ice. Having played hockey my entire life, including my experience at the NCAA Division I level, I have come to understand how to motivate the players and perform at their best all while having fun. At this age in hockey skill development, understanding the game and having fun are the most important aspects for our players.
